

After looking through and researching many different kids church curriculums, it's clear that there are not many resources to use in churches to teach about race. Despite the lack of resources, by remaining silent and not being intentional about discussing issues of race and racial tensions, we are implicitly teaching children in our ministries that it isn't important to stand up against racial prejudice and discrimination.

Young children notice and think about race. Adults often worry that talking about race will encourage racial bias in children, but the opposite is true. Silence about race reinforces racism by letting children draw their own conclusions based solely on what they see. Families can play a powerful role in helping children of all ages develop positive attitudes about race and diversity and skills to promote a more just future—but only if we talk about it!<sup>1</sup>
